

Implementing REDD-plus with ecological landscape approaches

13th Dec. 2018

13:15-14:30

at Japan Pavilion

Organized by Forestry and Forest Products Research Institute (FFPRI)
Center Forest Research Institute (CIFOR)

REDD-plus implementation can be an instrument for promoting improved ecosystem functions for stakeholders' benefits. This side event will focus on the effects of ecological approaches to discuss on how to implement REDD-plus and planning land use in a better way by in consideration of local complex ecosystem dynamics.

Program

Moderator: Dr. Kanako Morita, REDD Research and Development Center, FFPRI, Japan

	Presenters
Opening Remarks	Mr. Koji Hongo Deputy Director General, Forestry Agency, Japan
Presentation 1	Dr. Christopher Martius, Team Leader, Climate Change, Energy and Low-Carbon Development, CIFOR
Presentation 2	Dr. Tamotsu Sato REDD Research and Development Center, FFPRI
Presentation 3	Mr. Hiroshi Nakata Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) (Dr. Tom Evans, Wildlife Conservation Society (WCS))
Presentation 4	Mr. Shinsuke Yazaki Kanematsu Co. Ltd.
Presentation 5	Ms. Rina Susanti Keio University, Japan / Industry, Trade and SME Agency of North Kalimantan Province, Indonesia
Panel discussion What makes it possible for REDD+ implementation to contribute to sustainable rural development in an ecological sound manner ?
Closing Remarks/ Conclusion	Dr. Tamotsu Sato REDD Research and Development Center, FFPRI